

October 14, 1909

BRYAN WOOD

W. H. Wood and wife mourn the loss of their eldest son, Bryan, who departed this life a little before four o'clock yesterday morning, having suffered from a complication of ailments, with symptoms of typhoid.

Had he lived, he would have been fifteen years of age next month. A week before he was out playing ball, full of the life, hope and spirit which is the heritage of a clean minded, healthy boy.

Bryan was ever a bright, cheerful lad, and it is not strange that the father feels that he has lost a chum and companion in the death of his son.

Funeral services will be held from the home tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

The high school, where he studied, and the Sunday school class, of which he was a member, all share with the family a sense of personal loss in his untimely death.